THE MORDECAI OF THIS CENTURY

By Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman

Toronto Jewry will have the opportunity next Tuesday to greet Aaron Sapiro, and to let him know that we have appreciated his great service to the cause of Judaism. When in the years to come the Jewish historians will record the events and achievements of our generation, the stupendous feat of Aaron Sapiro in single handedly helping Ford to think straight on the Jewish question and ending the anti-Semitic campaign of the Dearborn Independent will get the recognition it merits. We have previously referred in these columns to the gallant and dashing letter-writers of New York City, who rushed in where Sapiro had triumphed to draw up the treaty of peace, and who have since decorated themselves for the great victory they had won, while ignoring Sapiro. But the Jewish masses have not been misled by their camouflage. They know that Sapiro single handed challenged Henry Ford. They know that Sapiro was refused the help of the Jewish leaders of America. They know that in challenging the greatest industrial titan, Sapiro was jeopardizing his name and his career. And they know that his courage, and perseverance won the victory which not alone cleared his own name, but cleared the name of the Jew. How much damage the Dearborn Independent propaganda had done to Jews the world over none can estimate, and how much Jewish suffering Sapiro by ending that propaganda has averted, no one can tell. Sapiro's achievement will go down in Jewish history and his memory will be honoured throughout the centuries, when those who have ignored him will be forgotten. Toronto Jewry will gather en masse to Massey Hall to acclaim the Mordecai of the twentieth century.

But Sapiro was a great man before his lawsuit against Ford. His work of organizing the farmers' co-operatives had brought him into international prominence. He showed the farmers how to market their produce and how to get the most out of their crops. The farmers instead of taking the prices for produce offered by their local traders have entered the markets of the world and have attempted to sell their wares where they could yield the best return. We heard Mr. Sapiro lecture on co-operative marketing long before Ford had attacked him. Mr. Sapiro held an audience of business men and manufacturers spell-bound by his eloquent recital of the romance of egg-marketing. Not only did he have something to say, but he knew how to say it. And when he speaks at Massey Hall next Tuesday evening on a great theme—"My Experience with American Justice"—his hearers can anticipate a most stirring presentation. Toronto Jewry enthusiastically welcomes him!

"ARROGANT BEGGAR"

Anzia Yezierska has written a novel entitled "Arrogant Beggar." In it she attacks the benevolent despotic type of social worker and philanthropist, and shows how degrading it is to the recipient of charity to be patronized and to live one's life under orders even of persons with good intentions. Social workers and philanthropists of our day know better, and have graduated from these attitudes. If Miss Yezierska is writing from personal experience, she is speaking of a generation in social work that has largely passed. A person may be in need of help and yet he may resent having others in lieu of such help dominate his life. Though we believe Miss Yezierska fights for a cause that has long been won, we would, nevertheless, urge every professional and social worker to read her book. It can do no harm and may do some good. Reminders are always helpful.

THE "GOOD" IN GOOD-WILL

The official action of the Presbytery of Philadelphia, declaring its unqualified opposition "to a movement for fellowship among various religions," as well as the unofficial rumblings against the "good-will dinner" held in this city recently, did not come as a surprise to those who keep informed on subjects of this kind. In fairness it should be stated the disapproval was not entirely on one side.

When "good-will dinners" were first launched in this country there were many members of the Jewish ministry and laity who approached the movement with reserve and even suspicion. Not that there did not exist a need for a more sympathetic understanding or for greater good-will among the leading faiths of the country; not that the country in its various ramifications would not be benefited by a sincere effort in this direction, but because of the nature of the dominant faith. To the Jew, saturated with the sins committed against his people in the name of this religion, it was difficult to believe that a complete change of heart had taken place. Then, too, there were certain cardinal principles—principles resulting in practices affecting our people directly—that would have to be discarded before that equality which good-will presupposes could be permanently established. The attitude for example of the good-will proponents to conversion of Jews to Christianity was not made clear. Does the Church really feel the time has come to abandon this form of activity? Among themselves the Jews asked this question. They did not feel it timely, however, that they should heckle their Christian neighbours when they were making affectionate overtures. It was presumed this practice would be abandoned. In mercantile establishments the policy of "No Jew Need Apply" still obtains. In churches at given seasons there is still a distinct anti-Jewish atmosphere, generated by the prayers and the fallacious interpretations from the pulpits. With all this the Jews were hopeful. Optimistic even in darker days, they were willing to have their wish displace their fear. The very initiative taken by the Christian leaders was construed as an earnest of their desire to change, even to make amends.

The rumblings and the frank expressions of protest clearly indicate that the fear harboured in certain quarters—harboured, but not made articulate—was not altogether unfounded. There is need for good-will and better understanding, for a deeper appreciation and a finer sense of relationship among the adherents of the different faiths. Bigotry and intolerance still stalk the highways of civilization so that none can miss them. The polished phrases and the fine rhetoric of the glib talkers have not been able to replace these aged prejudices. This is not a criticism of the guiding spirits of the Good-Will movement. Knowing their people they probably realized the need for it

Seventy-five thousand dollars was subscribed at the opening banquet of the Zionist Campaign which was attended by 300 people Sunday, March 18, to raise $300,000 in Canada for the purchase of lands for Jewish settlers in Palestine. After less than ten minutes of pledge card distribution $35,000 was reported. A. J. Freiman, of Ottawa, chairman at the dinner, announced the largest personal subscription from himself. His $10,000 donation in the United Palestine Campaign was duplicated by the local Hadassah organization, the women's auxiliary of the movement. A. A. Levin, one of the joint chairmen of the campaign, subscribed $5,000 and the same amount was pledged by the Bronfman interests and B. Aron.

Abramowitz introduced Mrs. Archibald Silverman, of Providence, R.I., vice-president of American Hadassah, who appealed for funds. Louis Fitch introduced Dr. Schmarya Levin who offered the philosopher's view of the Zionist ideal and had little to say about the economic aspect of the regeneration of the Jewish homeland. The upbuilders of modern Zion, he declared, hope to evolve a scheme of life in which there will be place for God. "In America we do not find the presence of God in life—that conception of the world pervaded by God, which traditional Judaism implies."

Modern Palestine has by no means adopted all the views and ideals of other lands, he pointed out, and he found striking example of the Biblical conception still existing there in the land contract which specifies the title to be "from earth to sky."

The speaker examined what he called the "Philosophy of Money," which he found one of the outstanding characteristics of American life. "Time is money," seems to be a formula that is applied almost universally on this continent, he observed, and he proceeded to indicate the fallacies of the claim. "Only in an upside down world could such a standard exist if carefully examined," he argued, pointing out the faulty logic in the proverb as illustrated by the dying man's helplessness to purchase time with his acquired wealth.

Dr. Levin finds the only certainty in the past. The present merely gives birth to the past, he observed, and the future is not yet born. The greatest slander of the Jewish race is to say that the Jew does not concern himself with anything but the present, he argued. There are only two nations that live inspired by the past: the Jews in the Eastern world, and the English in the west. The complete person must live in a past that gives birth to the future, declared the speaker.

The Zionist campaign was inaugurated with a mass meeting at the Monument National Theatre, Sunday afternoon, March 18, and a banquet at a hotel Sunday evening.

The land bought by Canadian Jewry is being given as a gift in perpetuity to the Jewish National Fund. It is situated between the sea shore and the Jaffa-Haifa-Damascus railway, and connects the Jewish colonies in Judaea with the Jewish colonies in Samaria.

The European Zionist leader, Dr. Shmarya Levin, was the principal guest speaker at the banquet and mass meeting. He is a resident of Tel Aviv.

Mrs. Archibald Silverman, of Providence, R.I., and Judge William M. Lewis, of Philadelphia, also spoke at the mass meeting and banquet. Mrs. Silverman is vice-president of the Zionist and Hadassah Organizations of America and in world Zionism holds the office of Deputy Delegate to the Inner Actions Committee. Mrs. Silverman was also one of the founders of the American Jewish Congress, of which she is now honorary vice-chairman. Judge Lewis is the National Chairman of the United Palestine Appeal in the United States.

Mrs. A. J. Freiman, of Ottawa, one of the Dominion chairmen for the campaign, was guest of honour at a tea at a hotel Friday, March 16.

Mrs. Louis Miller, president of Montreal Hadassah, presided at the tea at which senior and junior Hadassah chapters were represented.

The Hadassah chairmen elected for Montreal's campaign, Mrs. S. Wittes and Mrs. S. Jaffe, are being assisted by Mrs. S. Kahn and Mrs. Louis Miller.

COMMENTARIES

By Rabbi Harry J. Stern, of Montreal
Associate Contributing Editor

A VOICE FROM THE "NORTH END"

We offer the following letter to our readers. It speaks for itself and needs no commentary:

"Dear Sir:

"After reading the 'Commentaries Column' of March 9 and coming to the third article, 'We Venture to Advise,' I am taking the liberty of writing you how your commentary made me feel. I have to say your advice, sir, just opened the inner channels of my feelings that I experience almost daily especially on a Saturday morning.

"I am one of those that live 'north' and it is with a deep feeling that I am longing for some modern orthodox service conducted on a Saturday in our vicinity, a service that would inspire in us a feeling of wanting to go the 'shull' on Saturday morning instead of visiting Eaton's or doing our weekly shopping. I feel that I am longing for just such a 'Service,' something in a way of feeding ourselves and give us food for thought, and feeling that some of our Spiritual Advisers understand the Jewish youth.

"I have often been tempted to attend a Saturday service at the West End, but that would mean three-quarters of an hour in the street car, and somehow one does not feel justified in doing that. I am watching my little son grow and I am often wondering what I will be able to do for him when he will be a little older. I would want him to understand and live up to the real Jewish tradition, but I think it would be too much to expect from our children to live up to what you term 'Ghettoism,' if at heart I am rebelling at it.

"I feel sure that if our North End Kullers would organize and build some such structure with an idealism they would do a lot more for our community than by importing Chief Rabbis from the old country.

"Hoping, sir, that I have expressed my thoughts rightfully, and thanking you for the benefit I derive from your most educating and otherwise enlightening literature, at different times in your REVIEW, I am, dear sir,

Yours most sincerely,
(MRS.) LILLY G. MARCOVITZ.

THE SABBATH QUESTION

A Toronto reader of Commentaries requests that a paragraph be penned on the above subject. And we do it gladly, premising that no Jew whose heart and mind, whose soul and conscience are still responding to the call of Jewish loyalty would agree to give up the seventh day Sabbath of the Jew and replace it with the Sunday. Sunday is the "Lord's Day" of Christianity. To change the traditional Sabbath to the first day of the week would spell surrender for Israel. If the bread-winner has to go about his business and is compelled by necessity to work on the Sabbath—is there any reason for the lack of observance of the Sabbath in the home? And what about the Friday Eve? May it not be an evening of inspiration and consecration? And in this respect many who label themselves as "orthodox" are very negligent, they can find no other evening to go to the movies, or to attend a hockey game or even indulge in poker—than the Friday Eve.

Perhaps the best solution to the Sabbath question is the five-day week or work sponsored by many in recent years. If this becomes established then certainly the Jew will have the opportunity of keeping the traditional Sabbath in its entirety. And while we are on this subject sentiment compels us to conclude with Heine's charming poem, "Die Prinzessin Sabbat":

"As a dog, with dog's ideas,
All the week, a cur, he noses
Thru' life's filthy mire and sweepings,
Butt of mocking city Arabs."

"But on every Friday evening
On a sudden in the twilight
The enchantment weakens, ceases
And the dog once more is human
And his father's halls he enters
As a man with man's emotions,
Head and heart alike uplifted
Clad in pure and festal raiment."

INDIFFERENCE?

The United Palestine Appeal for 1928 was inaugurated last Sunday night with an auspicious and elaborate banquet. We were present at the affair and certainly enjoyed it. In fact, we enjoy any gathering that is helpful to Jew and Judaism and humanity at large. And "Palestine" is a constructive and helpful factor that ought to fire the imagination of every individual. But as we gazed about the huge banquet hall we missed many who should and could have been there. Certainly the Jewish Montreal should have responded better and in larger numbers to the call of Eretz Yisroel. What's wrong? Is it merely "indifference"?

Several weeks ago this column told of a young Jewish widow in New York who had selected a father for her young daughter born out of wedlock, and commended her for her courage. It may be of interest to the readers of this edifice of wisdom to know what happened after that. Well, plenty. Of the bouquets, one remark was: "I want to write to you to compliment an editorial in 'Every Friday' not only for its content but also for its unusually fine literary qualities. I refer to the paragraph about the woman courageous and purposeful enough to choose the father of her infant." Another wrote: "I can't help but write you and tell you that it did my heart good to see your column's comment on the Burnham case. It's a compliment not only to you but to your readers which must make one glad. I have a sort of sentimental attachment to your Toronto and so I am glad to be able to feel that your readers have matured enough to tolerate your viewpoint in the above-mentioned matter."

To publish these compliments from sources of the highest order would be unpardonable without the assurance that, aside from a few verbal expressions of similar opinion, this column never received more brickbats. They came by way of mail, telephone, and were relayed through chatty outposts. Mothers are said to have drawn their daughters into their own pure arms and to have looked this way blackly. "Shame on you!" said one woman succinctly with intent to kill. Does that sound like toleration? It all went to show that if comment on the Burnham case and what this column said about it aroused a real indication of what Jewish morals are like in Canada, "God's in His Heaven and all's right with the world."

The matter of the girls' club which gave a cabaret and dance at a hall allegedly unfriendly to Jews and served ham sandwiches, moreover, appears to be running in serial form. Issue before last of the REVIEW carried a letter, you remember, from "A Disgusted Guest," in which the writer begged to know what the younger generation is coming to. It was concluded lightly by this column that, had the older generation let the younger generation in on pickled herring, ham sandwiches would not have been the logical down-fall of the young. They would have had something better to fall back on.

A letter to the editor anent the whole topic reads as follows: "Attached hereto you will find a letter for publication. This is in reply to an article under 'Every Friday' column and we would appreciate it very much if you will publish same. At the top you will notice the name of the club but please do not put the name in, only what I have on the second page."

On the second page is this: "In your issue of March 9th, an article was published with reference to a cabaret and dance held recently at a place, as the writer says, where Jews are not welcome and also that ice cream and ham sandwiches were served. We wish to dispel any hard feelings that 'A Disgusted Guest' may have. The serving of the ham sandwiches was entirely an oversight on our part. A contract was made to have refreshments catered and it simply did not occur to us to investigate in detail what variety of sandwiches were being served. Incidentally, we might mention that although a variety of sandwiches were served, the ham sandwiches were consumed as much as the others. This is the first time that a Jewish organization has attempted to hold an affair at the place referred to above, and we might say that the management showed us every courtesy. We wish to thank you, editor, for the tone of your reply."

So, you see, startling information is contained in the above as to what the younger generation is coming to. It may have arrived there already and left "A Disgusted Guest" in a pained but valiant minority. For it is admitted that this club of Jewish girls in mostly Orthodox Toronto did not think of investigating in detail what the variety of sandwiches would include. Also, although the ham sandwiches seem to have been recognized as such (kids these days know everything), no one is known to have grabbed them from under defiled eyes and to have cast them away in loathing. On the other hand, the ham sandwiches, now part of history, were all eaten up, perhaps with relish, God forbid! Do they look like salmon?

Editor,
CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW.

I would like to make a few comments regarding the editorial of March 16, under the caption "Hebrew Liberal League."

In spite of the fact that I am one of the organizers of the above-mentioned league, I nevertheless quite agree with the writer in that religion and politics should be segregated. There is no more need for such a league than there is for a Jewish Old Folks' Home, or for a Federation of Jewish Philanthropies. No one, province, city or otherwise, has ever pointed an accusing finger and pre-emptorily demanded that we Jewish people take care of our aged and homeless. We did it, because it suited our pride and, perhaps, our self-complacency. However, this does not mean that the organization was formed either for the above-mentioned reasons or for the purpose of "contributing something to the pockets of politicians." Rather it was organized to instil in the citizens of Jewish faith, and especially non-English speaking newcomers to the country, the principles of Liberalism.

Yours sincerely,
DAVID ABRAMOWITZ.

Unemployment of Jewish labour is now the chief worry of the Palestine Government, according to a report from Jerusalem. More than 5,000 workers, mostly at Tel Aviv, near Jaffa, are idle and living on a weekly dole from the Zionist Executive Committee. Of the £4,500,000 loan only £1,500,000 remains, the rest having been spent on railways. The remaining funds are to be spent on the harbour at Haifa and improving the port of Jaffa.

SIBERIAN LAND SET ASIDE FOR JEWISH COLONIZATION

The reports recently circulated about a grant of a tract of land in the Bureya region, in Siberia, for Jewish colonization have now been confirmed by Kalinin, president of the Union of Russian Soviet Republics and chairman of the Transmigrants Committee. The commission sent to investigate the land was headed by Professor Brook, Chief Agronomist of the Comzet, the Government department for settling Jews on land. In the commission were included also Samuel Weizmann, Robinson and Rashkes. The complete report will soon appear in book form. The plan is to bring 1,000 men to that place in 1928, who will prepare the land and erect the necessary buildings so that they might bring over their families in 1929.

According to the "Emes," the Jewish Communist organ, this scheme of settling large numbers of Jews in a large area on the River Amur and near the Great Ocean is full of many possibilities, and it is not unlikely that this region may soon become a Jewish State. It comprises two million hectares about the size of the entire Crimean peninsula or of the whole of Palestine within its historic frontiers. Its total population at present is only 27,000, which is one per square kilometer. Crimea has a population of 600,000, or thirty-five to the square kilometer, and Palestine has about forty to fifty to the square kilometer. The country in Siberia has splendid opportunities. It has mountains and forests and there is much raw material which promises industrial development. There are no claimants to the land, which has remained almost unoccupied because the railway line was not laid until after the Revolution. The cost of settlement would be about 2,000 rubles per family, and 35,000 families could be settled there almost immediately, while the region has room for the settlement of a million Jews. "The Far East," "Emes" concludes, "has a tremendous future. It is our Canada or America. And the Jewish region in the Far East has opportunities of becoming the Jewish land of the future."

The Ukrainian Ministry of Agriculture set aside an additional 20,000 hectares for Jewish colonization. The new grants are in the vicinity of the land now being operated by the Agro-Joint and has been investigated by expert economists and agronomes. It was brought out at a conference of the Ukrainian Zik, the central committee for the colonists, that it will be necessary to introduce certain industries in the colonies if they would become self-supporting. Experiments in that direction will be made in one place, where a cement factory will be established and also electric incubators. The reports of pogroms against Jews in various localitites have been denied by Dr. Rosen, in charge of the American Agro-Joint. On the contrary, it is pointed out that in many instances the peasants are seeking to be associated with the Jewish districts.

The first steps have already been taken to convert the City of Odessa into a Jewish district. Four districts of this city are now policed by Jewish officers, who speak and write and conduct all their affairs in the Yiddish language. These have united in one unit and the headquarters of this unit are also conducted by Jews, where the official language is Yiddish.

A group of prominent Zionists in Russia, including Dr. Saadia Mazeh, the brilliant son of the late Rabbi of Moscow, were placed under arrest by the Soviet authorities on the charge that they collected funds to support the many Zionists who are now in exile in Siberia. Dr. Mazeh, who is much beloved by the Jewish population in Russia, and is a personal friend of Dr. Rosen, is a fine Hebrew scholar and a lecturer at the Moscow University. He refused the offer of becoming the successor to his father in the rabbinical position in Moscow, but he speaks there once a month in the great synagogue.

Alex Weisberg, of Dallas, Tex., is honored for the 1927 Linz award accorded to the outstanding citizen of the community.

Baron Edmond de Rothschild, who is nearly eighty years old and whose activities and benefactions are of an international character, has just established an endowment fund of 6,000,000 francs for the benefit of the French Institute (Maison de l'Institut) in London. The idea of this house had its inception during the World War when the Baron felt keenly the need of cultural amity through student bodies. It was opened in 1920 and already 250 French students in Great Britain have profited. The new endowment fund should make this altruistic endeavour one of far-reaching usefulness.
